Presenting warm water diving just over four hours from Dublin, the introduction of Malta to our 2007 programme of events opens up a number of great opportunities for beginner and advanced divers alike. Malta is home to the best diving in the Mediterranean including world famous sites on the islands of Gozo and Comino. Now you can complete your class and pool training for your Open Water certificate before jetting off to the Heart of the Mediterranean to do the open water dives, and take in some of the best sites this small island has to offer. The opening up of Ryanair's new route to Malta, beginning this month, can only mean better access to this often overlooked diving destination!
